SMALL FARMER DOOMED.

The largest farm in the country and probably in the world, is situated in the southwestern part of Louisiana. It extends 100 miles east and west. It was purchased in 1883 by a syndicate of northern capitalists by whom it is still operated. At the time of its purchase its 1,500,000 acres was a vast pasture for cattle belonging to a few dealers in that country. Now it is divided into pasture stations or ranches, existing every six miles. The fencing is said to have cost $50,000. The land is best adapted for rice, sugar, corn and cotton. A tract, say half a mile wide, is taken and an engine is placed on each side. The engines are portable and operate a cable attached to four plows. By this arrangement thirty acres are gone over in a day, with the labor of only three men. There is not a draft horse on the entire place, if we except those used by the herds of cattle, of which there are 16,000 head on the place. The Southern Pacific railroad runs through the place. The company has three steamboats operating on the waters of the estate, of which 300 miles are navigable. It has also an ice plant, bank, ship yard and ice houses.

In less than ten years farming will be revolutionized. The small farmers will be crowded to the wall by this mortgage farming syndicate, and if he is lucky he may be permitted to work for small wages on the land he once owned; this is not a prediction—it is a fact.—Frederick Upham Adams in The New Times for November.

We are compelled to disagree with the writer of the above. If it were a fact that big farms like the above described were common, then we would be forced to agree with Mr. Adams that small farming is doomed, but we think big farms are becoming scarcer. The farmer, be he one on a large or small scale, is the independent man of this country, and ever will be.

IN KANSAS.

Just a haulin' out the stuff
From the plains o' Kansas;
Roads can't get cars enough
For to empty Kansas.
Order see the farmer grin,
Stroke the lilacs on his chin,
As the cash comes rollin' in,
Over here in Kansas.
Women singin' songs o' glee,
'Bout ol' fruitful Kansas;
Babies crowin' merrily
Everywhere in Kansas.
Purty girls a buyin' clothes,
Toggin' out from head to toes,
Style? You bet your life she goes,
Over here in Kansas.

When the cares o' day is done
On the plains o' Kansas,
An' the kids begin to yawn
Sleepylike in Kansas,
Farmer wipes his glasses blurred,
Reads a chapter o' the Word,
Then he kneels an' thanks the Lord
That he lives in Kansas.
—Emporia Gazette.

A Tennessee lady, Mrs. J. W. Towle of Philadelphia, Tenn., has been using Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for her baby, who is subject to croup, and says of it: "I find it just as good as you claim it to be. Since I've had your cough remedy, baby has been threatened with the croup ever so many times, but I would give him a dose of the remedy, and it prevented his having it every time." Hundreds of mothers say the same. Sold by W. E. Price.

Mining for whiskey is the latest mining excitement, says an exchange. A company of capitalists are sinking a big shaft just below Parkeville on the Missouri river, in the hope of making a big find of over 40-year-old whiskey. In 1856 the steamer Albia, loaded with provisions and whiskey, and bound for up river points, struck a snag just below Parkeville and sunk in shallow water, after floating to the opposite bank from where disabled. It was known to have from 200 to 600 barrels of whiskey below, which was soon sealed up in sand, and with the appliances those days could not be removed. Lately the hull of the vessel has been discovered half a mile from the present river bed under from 26 to 36 feet of sand. A fortune awaits the company if it raises the whiskey, as it very valuable, owing to its age.

No Humbug.

Foley's Honey and Tar does not claim to perform miracles. It does not claim to cure all cases of consumption or asthma. But it does claim to give comfort and relief in advanced stages of these diseases, and to usually cure early stages. It is certainly worth trying by persons afflicted or threatened with these dread diseases. J. G. Polster.
